Latest Developments

Dozens of tents sheltering Palestinian refugees in Deir Ballout Camp, in Afrin city, north of Syria, have been uprooted by the violent winds rocking the region.

Displaced families, including children and women, have been without a roof over their heads as a result of the wild winds. Heavy damage was also inflicted on the sole water tank in the area.

Dozens of displaced Palestinian families who were forcibly deported to northern Syria have been struggling for survival in light of the freezing temperatures rocking the region and the absence of much-needed relief services.

Meanwhile, Palestinian refugees seeking shelter in Lebanon's AlBekaa region continue to rally outside of the UNRWA office in Ta'labaya for the third consecutive day, protesting the delay in the delivery of winter aids by the UN refugee agency.

On November 21, dozens of Palestinian families who were deported from Syria to Lebanon rallied outside of the office of UNRWA director in AlBekaa and the Lebanon-based refugee camps of AlBadawi and Ein AlHilweh as they denounced the delay in the transfer of urgently-needed winter aids and cuts of basic services.

Nearly 31,000 Palestinian refugees from Syria have sought shelter in Lebanon, where they have been subjected to a precarious legal status and dire socio-economic conditions owing to their lack of access to the local labor market and absence of relief assistance.

Along the same line, Palestinians taking refuge in AlNeirab Camp in Aleppo, north of Syria, have launched urgent appeals for gas and fuel supplies needed for cooking and heating.

The residents said local markets have completely and suddenly run out of Gas and fuel for over three weeks running.

Aleppo province has been gripped with an acute dearth in gas and fuel supplies. Civilians have been forced to purchase gas at some 8,000 Syrian Pounds a cylinder. The price hike and transportation crisis have made the situation far worse.

In the meantime, Yaboos Foundation for Women Empowerment and Development distributed uniforms to primary and preparatory schoolchildren at ALSafsaf School in ALAyedeen Camp in Daraa.

Director of ALSafsaf School Faysal Akab hailed the efforts made by Yaboos foundation to assist Palestinian refugee students.

Sometime earlier, UNRWA said all of its premises in Daraa Camp, except for its distribution center, were destroyed in the Syrian warfare. Six other structures, including three school buildings and a clinic, sustained partial damage.
