Victims

55-year-old, Palestinian refugee and member of the Liwaa Al-Quds battalion, Reda Samara, has died in a landmine explosion while fighting alongside the Syrian regime forces in Deir ez-Zour, east Syria.

On its part, AGPS confirmed that it has recorded the data of 978 Palestinian refugees, who have died due to gunshot wounds, most of which were killed while participating in the ongoing fighting in Syria.

Latest Developments:

The Syrian regime forces and its affiliated factions bombarded Palestine Street in Yarmouk camp with artillery mortars and Dushka machine guns, amid the ongoing siege on Yarmouk camp.

The Action Group's correspondent in south Syria reported the continued fighting between ISIS and 'Hayat Tahrir Al-Sham' in the besieged Yarmouk camp, adding that ISIS is bringing in new numbers, in its attempt to take control of the the areas of ‘Hayat Tahrir Al-Sham’ and end its presence in the camp.

Our correspondent said that the ongoing fighting has resulted in dozens of deaths and injuries in the ranks of ISIS, while no victims have been recorded in the ranks of ‘Hayat Tahrir Al-Sham,’ except for a limited number of injuries.

ISIS has made new progress towards the project buildings overlooking the stove in the street of Abu Fouad, and the building blocks that are adjacent to the project and overlooking Yarmouk Street. This reduced the areas controlled by ‘Hayat Tahrir Al-Sham’ in Yarmouk camp.

This comes with great coordination between ISIS and the Syrian regime, the entry of leaders and money to fill its deficit in south Damascus, in coordination with the Syrian security services, as well as the tightening practices imposed on the civilians in the camp and ‘Hayat Tahrir Al-Sham.’

In the meantime, the Syrian regime forces continue to detain Palestinian brothers “Emad Fares Samour,” aged 33 and “Eyad Fares Samour,” aged 30, since 13/12/2012 and to this date. They were arrested at one of the Assad militias’ checkpoints in the town of Sehnaya, in the suburbs of Damascus. So far, no information has been revealed about the residents of Al-Hajar Al-Aswad.

The testimonies of those released from the Syrian regime’s presence, confirm the presence of infants in the arms of their Palestinian refugee mothers, in the Syrian security branches. The Action Group has recorded the detention of 1664 Palestinian refugees, including 105 women, with no information revealed about them to this date.

In another context, AGPS revealed in its annual documentation report for the year 2017, titled “Palestinians of Syria, Between Promises and Restrictions,” and published earlier this month, that 28 Palestinian refugees were arrested during 2017, of which 21 were men and 7 women, from across the Syrian cities and camps. The report indicates that the rate at which the arrests targeted the Palestinian refugees in Syria decreased in 2017 than 2016, where 76 refugees were detained, including 73 men and 3 women.

The report revealed that Khan Al-Sheih camp recorded the highest number of arrests during 2017, due to the Syrian regime’s control over all of the camp’s joints, and the targeting of the activists who refuse to leave the camp towards Idlib in north Syria, after the signing of a reconciliation agreement between the Syrian regime and its opposition. According to the documented statistics, more than 232 detainees from the camp are in the regime's prisons, while more than 15 female, Palestinian refugees were arrested from the Khan Al-Sheih camp during 2017.

The total number of detainees in the Syrian regime's prisons, according to the Action Group's statistics, is 1664 detainees since the beginning of war in Syria, in addition to 304 missing refugees.
