Latest Developments

Palestinian refugee Sameh Daqaq has been detained by the German authorities pending her deportation to the eastern European country of Latvia, where her family were first granted asylum, before they headed for Germany.

The German authorities rebuffed the family's appeals for a legal stay in the country, where she has lived with her husband, Arafat Shukri Shreih, and child for three years.

German news outlets said the German Migration Office ruled that the family be sent back to Latvia. The expectant wife and her husband, both formerly sheltered in AlNeirab Camp for Palestinian refugees, in Aleppo, have been detained by the German police while their six-year old child was transferred to an orphanage.

German activists and citizens embarked on a campaign aiming to garner signatures in order to pressurize local authorities to backtrack on the refoulement decision. NGOs and political parties also announced their intent to stage protest events to that very end.

Palestinians from Syria in Germany are categorized as stateless refugees, according to the German law. The Geneva Convention stipulates that Germany grant nationality to those categorized as stateless refugees, in accordance with the German Nationality Law of 2000.

Meanwhile, military courses were held by the Liwaa AlQuds battalion, affiliated with the Syrian government, in Handarat Camp for Palestinian refugees in Aleppo.

Commander of Liwaa AlQuds, Muhammad AlSaid, accompanied by gunmen, toured the camp and inspected the conditions of the returnees.

In another development, Palestinian refugee Rudeina Muhammad Khattab, aged 29 and sheltered in Latakia, has been held in Syrian government prisons since 2012.

Activists urged the international human rights institutions, particularly UNRWA and the Palestine Embassy in Damascus, to work on disclosing her fate.

Over 108 Palestinian women and girls have been enduring mysterious fates in Syrian state dungeons, among 1,727 Palestinian detainees secretly jailed in those prisons.

Civil Action

A rally was staged by Palestinian factions in AlSabina Camp for Palestinian refugees, in Rif Dimashq, in solidarity with detainees in Israeli occupation jails.

Palestinian refugee families taking shelter in AlSabina Camp in Rif Dimashq continue to sound distress signals over the poor infrastructure, water and power outages, along with the absence of health care and transportation services in the area.
