Thaer Issa Aqel Shallaldah

Two brothers died in Syria; they are: Karem and Sharif Mohammed Al Refi, after they were trapped in an ambush carried out by the Syrian armed opposition groups, at the crossing of Jinan, near Hama city. It is mentioned that they are from Al Nairab camp for Palestinian refugees in Aleppo, as they are members of the so-called Al Quds Brigades, a pro-Syrian regime armed group.

Recent Updates

The Yarmouk camp was exposed yesterday to heavy shelling targeted Al Reja Square in the camp, while our correspondent couldn't know the damages because of the large security tensions in the region after the bombing. It is referred that one shell was dropped on the main street, causing the outbreak of fires in a shop.

The first pack of bread has entered the camp yesterday after it was stopped for about 580 days, where hundreds of people gathered in an attempt to get a pack of bread, and a large number returned without bread because of the limited amount that entered.

Amounts of aids were entered to the camp through the Syrian Red Crescent through Yelda town, our correspondent inside the camp confirmed that the aids, which were distributed on the residents, did not exceed 60 parcels. It is referred that 165 victims died because of the strict siege, the victims died due to malnutrition and lack of medical care.

On the other hand, the checkpoints of the Regular Army and Palestinian factions loyal to it still prevent the people of Al Sbeina camp to return to their camp in spite of the Regular Army control over the camp since 451 days, where the camp is still empty with the exception of some of the existing security members on its entrances.

Al Sbeina camp

Meanwhile, the Syrian Army did not explain the reason of preventing the people to return since that time. It is mentioned that the Regular Army imposed its full control on the camp after violent clashes that broke out between the Regular Army and the Syrian Opposition Groups.

In Daraa south of Syria, the Palestinians of Syria refugees suffer of severe shortage of food and medical supplies due to the difficulty in accessing it as a result of the tensed security situation in the surroundings.

Moreover, the water cut exacerbated the situation of the residents, who are without water for about (297) days, as they became relying on artesian well water for securing part of their daily needs. The residents are complaining of the small amount of their share of water that was distributed by some tanks of the Syrian opposition institutions. Only one tank of water was distributed to all residents in the pretext of where they distribute just one tank of water for all people of the camp, under the pretext of the difficulty of entering the tanks for fear of bombing.

In Homs, the Syrian security forces released the Palestinian refugee "Salih Abbas," from Al Aedein camp in Homs three days ago, after he was detained for more than ten days. The camp, which is controlled by the regular army, witnesses heavy security tightening, especially from the checkpoints that are located at the entrances, prompting many youth, particularly those in the military age, to leave the camp for fear of being arrest and forced them to perform the compulsory military service.

On a different context, the AGPS received numerous complaints from Palestinians of Syria about the Lebanese authorities continuous prevention of entering its territory despite possessing the required official documents. According to a refugee - who preferred not to mention his name - that the Lebanese authorities prevented him from entering their territory despite the presence of his wife and his children inside Lebanon. He also reported that when he was in Saudi Arabia, the airline refused to book him a ticket in the pretext that "the Palestinian Syrians are forbidden entering Lebanon."

It is noteworthy that one of the Syrian private airlines had issued a generalization on the airline offices in Syria not to book tickets for the Palestinian Syrians, who want to go to Lebanon, for the same argument, while the generalization excluded those who have visa and a plane ticket to a country other than Lebanon and need to enter the "Rafiq Al Hariri Airport " transit only, and not authorized to enter Lebanon, but remain in the waiting room at the airport.

In another context, the Palestinian community in Germany, in cooperation with the Palestinian Women's Association in Germany, declared the establishment of a cultural seminar entitled "Palestinians of Syria ... Nakba Renews Nakba" in the western city of Dortmund Germany, on Sunday, 15th of February/ 2015.
