Victims

The Palestinian refugee Mohammed Mustafa from Jaramana Camp died due to the ongoing war in Syria, raising the number of victims who died since the beginning of the events in Syria to 2865 victims.

Mohammed Mustafa

Greece

Hundreds of Palestinian Syrian refugees were victimized by human traffickers in Greece, which is one of the main gates to get to Europe. Dozens of them had been erected and theft by human traffickers who promised to deliver them to northern European countries, forcing them to stay in the Greek cities or long periods reached in some cases for more than six months.

After long days of waiting, most of the refugees lost their money, where they became unable to access their destination, nor to secure their temporary situation, especially with the approach of the tourism season in Greece, and the accompanying rise in prices.

In the meantime, dozens of stranded refugees in Greece appealed human rights and relief organizations to alleviate their suffering, and to provide a helping hand to them after they were stranded during their trip to northern Europe.

Recent Updates

Number of shells targeted different parts of Yarmouk yesterday, coincided with the outbreak of sporadic confrontations on several axes between the Palestinian armed groups and ISIS alongside Al-Nusra Front.

The siege imposed by the regular army and PFGC groups is still continue for more than 689 days, amid continued worsening of humanitarian situation, which further aggravated since the storming of ISIS into Yarmouk early April.

Yarmouk camp

In the meantime, dozens of elementary students in Khan Al ALShieh camp in Damascus suburb managed to access the official examination centers to perform their exams in the town of Zakia.

For his part, our correspondent confirmed that the students had to go through a byway to reach the examination centers in the nearby town of Zakia, after being prevented from going through Zakya - Khan Al Shieh road, while the students returned to their camp safely after they performed official examinations.

It is worth mentioning that all the roads connecting between the camp and the center of the capital, Damascus are still closed except for "Zakya - Khan Al Shieh" which opens between now and then.

Turning to the south of Syria, heavy shelling targeted Deraa camp yesterday, which increased in the evening, coinciding with the sound of violent explosions targeted the neighboring villages. It was mentioned that the city is witnessing an unprecedented rise in military operations. In the same context, Deraa Camp southern Syria suffer of an acute shortage of medical services, in addition to a large mass in the infrastructure of the camp because of the frequent shelling that targeted the camp.

Gaza

Six Palestinian Syrian families have left the Gaza Strip heading to Sweden, after obtaining immigration and residence formal approval in Swedish territory, and in coordination with the General Commissioner for Refugees in the United Nations, and facilitated by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC).

The Palestinian refugees who emigrated from Syria to the Gaza Strip is facing harsh and difficult circumstances after the cessation of aid provided to them following the formation of reconciliation government in 2nd of last June.

The severity of their conditions have worsen after the Zionist aggression on the Gaza Strip, where many of them killed and injured, as well as, a lot of their houses were destroyed by the Zionist warplanes, making forcing them to go to UNRWA schools.

Despite Hamas government's financial aid in compensation for the war, but many of them found themselves forced to sell their belongings, and to find any source of living to secure food for their children.

The number of Palestinian refugees, who fled from the hell of war in Syria and returned to Gaza, estimated with about 1,000 people, according to the Ministry of Social Affairs, UNRWA, and the PLO.
