VICTIMS

A pro-Assad Palestinian refugee has died in Latakia Suburbs in the wake of fighting between regime's forces and the Syrian opposition. Tamam Mofeed Al-Atrash, born in Damascus, was killed in 15/2/2015.

RECENT UPDATES

The Palestinian families of victims who killed at Turkish borders appealed the Turkish authorities to hand over the victims' bodies. They demanded a life in dignity for the Palestinian infant who left alone. Activists said that bodies are still in the government hospital of Slopy in Mardin province.

It is indicated that four Palestinians were killed by Turkish borders guards. The Palestinian girl, Maram Aksayed, was recognised while three others still unknown. Media sources reported that a family consists of husband, his wife and his sister from Yarmouk camp among the victims, while their baby-daughter has survived to left alone.

It is worth mentioning that this accident was not the first violation conducted by Turkish Gendarme. Several incidents were reported of firing to force refugees to return back to Syria.

On the other hand, Syrian military and political security raided houses in Homs camp arresting many displaced Syrians in the camp. Knowing that the Syrian security had granted them a security approval to live in the camp. In the same context, Security forces has raided the house of "Ramiz Abbas", pro-Assad Palestinian refugee, in 14/02/2016 with no information about the reason. Indicated that Abbas is a descendent from Jaffa city in Palestine. These events come under the situation of pressure imposed by Syrian regime on the camp causing exacerbating the economic and living plight.

In Aleppo, seven Palestinian refugees were wounded following the accident of their bus. The bus had overturned on Al-Ramousyeh road before transferring the injuries to the hospital of Aleppo university.

Turning to Gaza, where dozens of Palestinian returnees protested against the government and factional negligence. The protest was held at the junction of Al-Saraya in Gaza city. The protesters demanded the Palestinian president "Mahmoud Abbas" and the unity government, headed by "Rami Hamad-Allah", to put an end to their suffering in Gaza, asking for suitable employment opportunities and ensuring that they receive their allocated aid to them. They reminded the government of the promises made by the former prime minister "Ismael Hanyih" about securing housing and employment opportunities.

The protesters condemned the Egyptian government because of closing Rafah crossing which prevented them to travel.

It is noteworthy that Gaza is fully subjected to a severe siege by Israel and Egypt, which created a terrible plight in the living conditions.
