Latest Developments

Palestinian toddler Mahmoud Mohamed Za'tout, from Haifa's town of Tira, in Palestine, died of a congenital heart disease (hole in the heart) rocking his vulnerable body.

Activists attributed the child's death to the acute shortage in life-saving medicines due to the tough cordon slapped on Yarmouk Camp.

Za'tout is the fifth to have been pronounced dead in blockaded Yarmouk during March.

AGPS documented the death of 194 Palestinian refugees, mostly sheltered in Yarmouk, due to undernourishment and medical neglect.

Meanwhile, reporting from Khan AlSheih Camp for Palestinian refugees in Rif Dimashq, AGPS news correspondent said a truck laden with gas cylinders was allowed entry into the shelter via government checkpoints, in the first such move in over five months.

Over recent months, activists have often spoken out against the recurrent infringement by the government squads of the terms of the reconciliation accord struck with the opposition outfits in November 2016 and which stipulated that the opposition forces retreat to the northern Syrian province of Idlib. Over 2,000 activists, journalists, and civilians had also been forced out of the camp. At the same time, the government forces tightened grip on Khan AlSheih residents, in a flagrant violation of the deal.

In another development, residents of AlNeirab Camp for Palestinian refugees have launched cries for help over the dramatic increase in the prices of basic items due to the closure enforced on Khanaser Road over the past couple of days as a result of the deadly clashes rocking the area.

AlNeirab Residents have also been subjected to security crackdowns by the regime forces and their war abettors.

In the meantime, AlJamal family appealed, in letters sent to AGPS, to the concerned parties and activists in Syria to work on disclosing the fate of their three siblings who were kidnapped on August 29, 2013 from AlSbeina checkpoint, in Rif Dimashq.

The three missing relatives are Ahmad Hussein AlJamal, born in 1940 in Palestine; Hussam AlJamal, aged 53, and Assif AlJamal, 44.

AGPS urges the Syrian government to disclose the fate of 1,176 Palestinian detainees incarcerated in the regime penitentiaries.
