Victims

Ibrahim Mohammed al-Haj, from Alnairab camp, was killed under torture in the prisons of the Syrian Security Forces.

Recent Updates

Explosive barrels targeted sides of Jallein compound in Dara'a camp southern Syria, causing destruction of a number of civilian homes, and a number of wounded.

On the other hand, the siege imposed on Yarmouk camp continues despite the passing of three days of signing a new agreement that provides the neutralization of the camp.

Syrian authorities, represented by the President of the Palestine Branch and a number of representatives of relief committees and military brigades inside the camp, have signed an agreement ensures neutralizing the camp and break the siege.

Thus, views have varied about the success or failure of the agreement, as some activists demanded to give more time for the completion of the deal, while others expressed pessimism regarding the success of the agreement, especially with the delay of implementing its items.

In the same context, a number of Yarmouk camp children gathered at the entrances of the camp, but they were not allowed to enter.

Warplanes hovered above Neirab camp in Aleppo, accompanied with voices of heavy explosions rocked the camp after the bombing of the surrounding areas.

The Dream Has a Rest

The exhibition "The Dream has a Rest" opened, yesterday, at the Museum of Mahmoud Darwish in Ramallah. The photographer "Naraz Saed" exhibited about fifty images embodied the suffering of Palestinian refugees in the Yarmouk refugee camp which is besieged since around a year.

Photographer "Naraz Saed" has been able to overcome the siege imposed on his camp by viewing those images in Ramallah, in an effort to highlight the suffering of trapped people.

In an interview with Watan News Agency, "Naraz" said , " at the time that cameras directed to public events, I directed my lenses toward the small details that make up the life of besieged camp, narrow alleys and marginalized civilians who are paying the high price of this conflict".

Mr. Nezar also pointed out that the true picture in the Yarmouk refugee camp was truest than the word, so I chose to shoot the situation in Yarmouk camp from another perspective, which is far after the event.

Neras saed

The exhibition has a political indication that insures the communication between inside Palestine and in the Diaspora, where the presence of Yarmouk reflected here as an integral part of the picture.

The exhibition was attended by the Palestinian Minister of Culture, Mayor of Ramallah Municipality, and a number of public, cultural and artistic Palestinian figures.

Hungary

Rakan Hussein ends his eleven days hunger strike. It is worth mentioning that Mr. Rakan had been on hunger strike because the Hungarian authorities disabled reunion with his children due to not recognition of their passports.

At the same time, Rakan called all human rights institutions that concerned of refugees, and the free world to intervene to put pressure on the Hungarian authorities in order to find a solution to his case and to reunite with his children who are currently in Turkey.

It is worth mentioning that Rakan has been displaced from Syria because of the deterioration of the security situation, and also because of what his hometown Dara'a has been witnessed of repeatedly shelling that caused the death of his wife and his mother after the explosive barrels targeted Muzeireeb town.

The Scene is Still BLOOD

Lebanon

Palestinian factions, and national and Islamic forces in Lebanon, called in a statement, the Lebanese Authorities to alleviate the procedures regarding the entry of displaced Palestinians from Syria and treat them like Syrians, and also to consider that the suffering is the same.

The statement came after a meeting at the Palestine Embassy in Beirut, where they discussed the latest updates in Palestine and the region. It is noteworthy that the Lebanese Authorities recently issued several laws that restrict the entry of Palestinian Syrian refugees. Lebanon has deported about fifty Palestinian refugees to Syria in recent months.

In a related context, Mr Nihad Al Mashnouq, the Lebanese Interior Minister, promised to work to find solutions to the problems of the Palestinians in Lebanon, including displaced people from Syria. That was during the meeting with the Chairman of the Lebanese – Palestinian Dialogue "Hassan Mneimneh", where they discussed a number of issues, including the situation of displaced Palestinians from Syria.

Thus, UNRWA called Palestinian individuals and families, who did not communicate with their office to update their data and to go to their offices between 9:00 Am to 2, 00 Pm on Tuesday, 24 June until Friday 27June, 2014.
