Latest Development

Spates of barrel bombs and ground-to-ground missiles slammed into Daraa Camp for Palestinian refugees and ALSadd Road, resulting in heavy material damage.

Palestinian refugees sheltered in Daraa Camp, among other southern Syrian areas, have been enduring dire conditions due to the unabated hostilities and chronic power and water cuts.

Meanwhile, residents of Handarat Camp were allowed to return to their homes 246 days after the Syrian government forces grabbed hold of the area.

Handarat returnees performed Eid prayers at the local mosque, which has been severely damaged by the rampant shelling.

Residents of Handarat Camp who were deported to Aleppo had been denied access to their homes for 1,512 days running.

Nearly 90% of civilian buildings and structures in Aleppo-based Handarat Camp have been partially or totally destroyed in the deadly offensives launched by the government forces using missiles and barrel bombs.

In the meantime, holders of the “subsidiary protection” status in Germany have been enduring an abject situation.

Holders of subsidiary protection are granted only a one-year stay renewable every five years and are neither entitled to their rights as holders of a refugee status nor to family reunification.

Other refugees have obtained three-year stays in Germany which grants them the right to labor and to family reunification.

On the other hand, a large number of Palestinian refugees suffer from the consequences of leaving their fingerprints in Italy and other countries that forced them to leave their fingerprints during their journey to northern Europe, where their applications for asylum are rejected. Then the refugee gets a lawyer to follow up on his case and after more than a year he often gets the residence. Several cases by some German states have also overlooked Italian fingerprints.

Thousands of refugees have received temporary residence. Despite the great differences between the German government and the courts, many Palestinian refugees were granted the right to reside for a period of three years and the right to family reunion and work.

Palestinians from Syria in Germany are categorized as stateless refugees, according to the German law. The Geneva Convention stipulates that Germany grant nationality to those categorized as stateless refugees, in accordance with the German Nationality Law of 2000.

Civil Action Committees

The Committee of the Palestinians of Syria in Bar Elias, in the Lebanese Bekaa Valley, held, in partnership with an anonymous benevolent, a collective meal to a number of orphans sheltered in the area. Children toys and cash aids were distributed to a number of children.

Some 31,000 Palestinian refugees from Syria reached Lebanon until the end of 2016.
