UPDATES

The forces of Assad regime have confiscated a house of Palestinian family in Husseinieh camp. Al-Masri family has been expelled out of its house under the pretext of affiliation to Hamas movement. AGPS said that two members of the family had been detained by the Syrian forces since 2 years.

The Syrian security and military forces continue to prevent Palestinian families to return to the camp. About 40% of population of the camp are still banned, activists said. The forces of Assad had warned all residents that their possessions, inside the camp, are at the disposal of the checkpoint on the camp entrance. Among the warned residents is Abu

Hisham Kiplawi, Fateh-affiliated and one of the prominent personalities in the camp.

In the same context, many houses were bombed by the regime forces. Those houses were targeted due to the activities of its owners, such as, activists and journalists. It is noteworthy that the house of Hamas leader in the camp, Mahmoud Zahgmout, had been razed to the ground in 26 August 2015 by the Syrian forces.

THE UNITED KINGDOM

Researchers and experts have discussed the situation of Palestinians in Lebanon. The session, organised by Palestinian Return Centre PRC, addressed the poverty in the Palestinian camps in Lebanon in the light of the exacerbated crisis of Palestinians from Syria.

The session, titled "Poverty in Palestinian Refugee Camps: Challenges and Prospects" , was hosted by MP Ben Bradshaw inside the House of Commons in the British capital of London. PRC presented a new report about the topic focussing on the influx of Palestinians from Syria as the main factor of the current problem of Palestinians in Lebanon. The report indicated to UNRWA and the implications of the recent cuts. The speakers in the event focused on the plight of Palestinians from Syria through some case-studies.

In the meanwhile, Palestinian Return Centre and AGPS announced a new report to be published next week. The bilingual report, Arabic and English, provides the detailed situation of Palestinians of Syria from July-December 2015, the organisations said.

ARRETING

Ahmad Abu Touq, Palestinian refugee from Alramel camp in Latakia, is still in enforced disappearance for 2 and half years. Abu Touq was arrested by Assad forces in 6 September 2013 in a crackdown in the camp. His family, unofficially, had been told that Ahmad in the 235 security post, but with no confirmation about his fate.

Many letters and calls were received by AGPS about Palestinian detainees in Syria. Practical difficulties are experienced in the process of documenting the entire statistics of Palestinians in prison due to the extreme secrecy imposed by the regime, AGPS said. AGPS has listed (1044) Palestinian detainee are still in prisons, (78) of them from Alramel camp, while (431) have been tortured to death.

LEBANON

*Hundreds of Palestinian refugees continue protesting against UNRWA cuts. In its turn, the NGOs in Lebanon held several meetings to arrange events to that end. Palestinians of Syria Committee contributed in the meetings in Sidon south Lebanon in 25th this month, while hundreds of Palestinians from Syria in Lebanon had participated in the wave of protests. The committee demanded UNRWA to back down from its recent decisions, warning from serious repercussions on the displaced Palestinians who fled Syria to Lebanon with no hope. The participants agreed to escalate the protest in the few coming days.
