VICTIMS

The Palestinian-Syrian refugee "Jamal Omar Ammoura" was killed due to shelling targeted the Eastern Gota by Syrian warplanes. Ammoura used to live in Dummar Town in Damascus Suburb, and his family came from Terit Haifa town in Palestine originally.

RECENT UPDATES

The Palestinian-Syrian youth and families are still migrating from under-regime's control areas towards Turkey and European countries due to the harsh living and security conditions. The AGPS' correspondents reported that migration occurs on a daily basis despite the tightened fist of Syrian Security and the strains put on travel roads toward the Turkish borders.

In Turkey, hundreds of Palestinian-Syrians are still waiting for a chance to ride the Aegean Sea towards Greece to reach Western Europe countries after that.

The major reasons behind this migration, according to activists, are the security persecution the youth are exposed to, and the strains put on movement freedom and the fears of arrest, added to the fears of obliging the youth to join the military service with PLA. All that reasons pushed people to migrate and look after better chances of education and work abroad.

The continuation of the war and targeting the camps with missiles and shelling, as well as the importance of some camps' geographic locations such as Al-Nayrab camp grabbed the attention and the focus of the Regime and the opposition forces as well, and caused an endless attempts to impose control over it, and caused also a constant state of worry amongst the civilians.

The cost of transportation from the Regime's areas to opposition's areas has been doubled, for example, the cost of transportation from Al-Nayrab camp towards the last Regime's checkpoint could reach SYP 500,000 which equals $1,400 for a family, and about SYP 200,000 which equals $600 for the individuals. The agreement should be done with the pro-regime groups inside the camp, which in turn will drive the migrants to the last checkpoint of the regime's army, to start another suffering trip of crossing the Turkish borders.

It is noteworthy that 100,000 Palestinian-Syrians had already left Syria towards Turkey and Europe, while other thousands are still waiting the chance to flee.

ARRESTEES

The Syrian Security forces have arrested "Ayman Al-Mahmoud" from Al-Aideen camp in Homs City, Mahmoud originally lives in Al-Yarmouk camp and considered to be very close to the pro-regime militias.

Also, the Syrian security arrested "Wael Khalil Mohammad Basyouni" forties-age, on 11 December at the University Housing checkpoint.

Moreover, the Syrian security forces arrested "Mohamad Ahmad Mahmoud Shatara" conscript in the PLA, four days ago at a checkpoint in Hama City despite carrying official leave from the army. Mohammad's family originally from Tarshiha village in Palestine and he is twenties age.

GERMANY

The Palestinian-Syrian refugee "Ramy Al-Asheq" issued the first printed Arabic newspaper in Germany titled "Abwab" which is political social newspaper, concerns about providing appropriate information to the newcomer refugees to Germany through translating some laws and provisions of the constitution. The free of charge monthly newspaper distributed 45,000 copies of its first issue, and the distribution will be run in cooperation with the immigration Ministry in Germany, and will be delivered to all asylum seekers' camps and all towns inhabited by Syrians and Palestinians refugees.

Ramy is a Palestinian Syrian refugee from Al-Yarmouk camp who was displaced after the war towards Jordan illegally, where he was arrested and deported to Al-Zatari border camp, until he could escape after four months, he managed to live inside Jordan for few months using alias name where he could get protection from the German Government since he is wanted to both Syrian and Jordanian Governments.
